Church—Bombing

NEW YORK (AP)—A letter from an interreligious group to command chaplains at every U.S. Air Force base in this country and Asia Friday urged them to encourage American airmen to refuse to do any more bombing of Cambodia.

Pilots and crewmen should leave the Air Force, resist or disobey orders rather than continue to participate in bombing that "is an offense against God and man," the letter said.

It was signed by 14 U.S. church leaders, Protestant and Roman Catholic, and air-mailed earlier this week to chief chaplains at 161 Air Force installations in the United States and the Far East.

Clergy and Laity Concerned, a 56,000-member interfaith peace organization which gathered the signatures, said it delayed making the letter public until time for it to have been received.

Declaring that many chaplains have shown "great and often unacknowledged courage" in their ministries, the letter called on them to do so now by being "men of God before they are servants of the state."

Signers included the Rev. Dr. Robert Moss, president of the United Church of Christ; Roman Catholic Bishop Thomas Gumbleton, of Detroit; United Methodist Bishop James Armstrong, of Aberdeen, S.D., and Episcopal Bishop Robert DeWitt of Philadelphia.

Terming the bombing "profoundly immoral," the letter said most responsible American leaders now acknowledge it "is bereft of whatever appearance of military logic or legal sanction the war may once have possessed."

Pact Enforcement

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese officials completed talks Friday on proposals to strengthen the Vietnam peace agreement, as Canadian peacekeepers threatened a walkout.

A Canadian boycott of the international peacekeeping organization over a dispute with Hungary and Poland was averted at the last minute when the meeting was adjourned until Monday.

The Polish and Hungarian delegations wanted time to consult with their governments before deciding whether they will go along with Canada and allow troop infiltration into South Vietnam on the International Commission of Control and Supervision agenda.

U.S. envoy William H. Sullivan scheduled talks over the weekend in Phnom Penh, Vietnam and Bangkok with allied leaders before he returns to Washington to join Henry A. Kissinger in a report to President Nixon.

Sullivan planned a meeting with President Nguyen Van Thieu before his departure from Saigon on Saturday morning.

One of the 11 points of the original Vietnam peace agreement signed in Paris last Jan. 27 was said to be implementation of a cease-fire in Cambodia, whose fate Thieu says threatens the security of neighboring South Vietnam.

While the level of fighting in Vietnam remained at its lowest ebb since the cease-fire went into effect Jan. 28, new troubles besieged Cambodia.

In Phnom Penh more than 200 government troops were reported missing after insurgent forces overran their position on the east bank of the Mekong River, 20 miles southeast of the Cambodian capital.

Four government soldiers were known dead and 25 wounded, according to initial reports.

U.S. B-52 bombers flew in support of the Cambodians, dropping tons of explosives on the positions of antigovernment forces.

Second Spacewalk Does Trick Skylab Docking Attained

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

— The Skylab 1 astronaut-mechanics Friday night redocked with the crippled space station they were sent in space to save after fixing a cranky docking mechanism during a space walk.

"Yea! We got a hard dock out of it," said Skylab 1 commander Charles Conrad Jr. after the astronauts finally performed the repair during a second space walk.

Conrad and his crewmates, Paul J. Weitz and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, donned bulky white space suits and evacuated air from their command ship to fix the docking mechanism.

The spacecraft darted in and out of communications with earth during the repair attempt and Conrad happily announced the successful link up just minutes before midnight as radio contact was re-established.

Skylab 1 started flawless from Cape Kennedy Friday morning when the astronauts were drilled into orbit to start a dramatic space salvage mission to America's first orbiting laboratory.

After the docking repair, Conrad said it was bedtime for him and his exhausted crewmates.

"We'll hit the pad and press on first thing in the morning," he said.

The astronauts earlier performed a space walking attempt to repair a broken solar power panel on the Skylab, but that also ended in failure.

When they tried to re-dock with the space station, the docking mechanism did not work.

As the astronauts worked on the docking problem, fatigue blurred their usually crisp conversation. The men were awakened at 3:45 a.m. EDT Friday for their launch and their second (Turn To Page Six)

Argentine Inaugural Marred By Bloodshed

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A half-million jubilant Peronists surrounded government house Friday as Hector J. Campora became Argentina's 30th president, but the inaugural celebration was marred by bitterness and bloodshed.

Police fired into a mob of tough young Peronists attacking a limousine carrying two officers of the outgoing military junta. Newsmen at the scene said at least two persons in the crowd were killed and half a dozen wounded.

The mass of people jamming Plaza de Mayo was good natured, cheering the end of seven years of military rule. But militant youths surged through the crowd shouting extremist slogans.

Campora was scheduled to drive the 12 blocks from Parliament, where he delivered a three-hour speech, to Government House for the formal transfer of powers, but the streets were jammed with drum-beating, banner-waving Peronists. Instead, he took a helicopter and landed on the roof of Government House.

U. S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers canceled his planned attendance at the Government House ceremony on the advice of U. S. and Argentine security agents.

He slipped out a side door of the congressional palace after listening to Campora's speech and returned to his suite in the Plaza Hotel to watch the ceremony on television.

In his speech to the joint session of Parliament, Campora praised the "suffering and heroic Argentine people" and pledged "solidarity with the anti-imperialist struggles for liberation."

He also declared his government would nationalize private bank deposits and meat and grain exports and would immediately restore the rank of general to ex-president Juan D.

Peron, ousted by a military coup in 1955 and now living in Spain.

The military rebels had labeled Peron a traitor and stripped him of his rank. He returned to Argentina for the first time last November and created the political alliance that swept Campora and his Peronists back into power in the March elections.

In Madrid, newsmen and dozens of Argentines waited in vain outside Peron's suburban home for a glimpse or a few words from him. Police guarding the home said he and his wife would be away all day to avoid the expected avalanche of visitors. Peron recently said he plans to return to Argentina around June 15.

The morning's rioting lasted 30 minutes, with youths burning four cars and a police motorcycle. Blood stained the streets. The rest of this capital city of eight million people was unusually quiet.

Heath's Government Tries To Ride Out Sex Scandal

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Heath's Conservative government appeared Friday to have weathered for now the sex scandals that forced two peers to leave government posts.

One opposition lawmaker urged Heath to deal with speculation in Parliament that more society leaders are involved in the scandal. Two ministers have resigned after admitting to casual affairs with call girls.

Laborite James Wellbeloved, an expert on national security, said his only interest was in whether criminal activities have occurred.

But not all legislators backed Wellbeloved's probing.

Liberal John Pardoe called him "a sanctimonious creep of the first order."

The ministers who resigned, Earl Jellicoe, 55-year-old government leader in the House of Lords, and Lord Lambton, 50-year-old head of the Royal Air Force department, both had access to Allied defense secrets.

Heath assured the House of Commons Thursday that no other ministers or members of the civil service were involved. The events added up to Britain's worst sex and security scandal since June 1963 when the Profumo affair rocked the Conservative government of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. That scandal hounded Macmillan until he resigned in October for health reasons.

Heath was scheduled to discuss with opposition leader Harold Wilson what form the promised security commission inquiry into the scandal will take.

The commission is expected to begin next week calling witnesses including Jellicoe and Lambton and possibly the call girls they have admitted knowing.

Two girls named one of the two girls allegedly involved as Norma Levy, 26-year-old daughter of an Irish cattle breeder.

Confused Abductor Forgets Abductees

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — It was a pretty confused kidnapping.

As authorities told the tale Friday, the victims got away all by themselves. And the kidnaper was so busy making plans to collect his ransom that he didn't even know his hostages had fled.

Police Detective Matt Touchton, announcing the arrest of a Jacksonville man in the case, gave these details:

Three teen-age boys — two of them brothers — were driving to school Wednesday morning and stopped to pick up a hitchhiker. Their passenger pulled a pistol and ordered the boys to write ransom notes to their parents.

He drove them to separate, isolated parts of town, tied each one to a tree and drove off. Then he telephoned the parents of the brothers and told them where to find the car and ransom notes.

By the time the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stein, found the automobile, all the boys had worked themselves loose from their bonds and called home.

The story of the abduction was carried over local radio and television. The afternoon newspaper carried a front-page story and pictures on the boys — Robert and Richard Stein, and James Dent.

About 4 p.m. Wednesday, the Stein family received another telephone call demanding that Mrs. Stein take $60,000 in a package to a supermarket in a Jacksonville suburb and wait there for another telephone call. Subsequent telephone calls sent the Steins to three different places with the package — which contained no money. It was finally left in a park, but the kidnaper didn't appear.

Detective Touchton said the man told them later he got cold feet and simply went home to bed. "He said he got up about 4 a.m. and thought he'd better go

Say Magruder To Plead Guilty Cox, Richardson Take Oaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harvard University Law Prof. Archibald Cox took over the government's Watergate investigation Friday. Elliot L. Richardson was sworn in as attorney general.

President Nixon heard Richardson take the oath of office, administered by Chief Justice Warren Burger in a showy White House ceremony.

But the President flew off for a weekend at the Florida White House before Cox quietly took his oath as special prosecutor at the Justice Department.

The President announced that Richardson, 52, who had been secretary of Defense, will retain his seat on the National Security Council.

On Thursday Nixon had lashed out at "those who steal secrets." He appeared to underscore this concern for national security by placing the nation's chief law-enforcement officer on the government's top security panel.

In other Watergate developments Friday:

—The three major networks announced a plan by which they will take turns televising the Senate's Watergate hearings when they resume June 5 after a week's holiday break. The Senate Watergate committee has not announced which witnesses it will hear then. Under the rotation arrangement, NBC will televise the hearings June 5, CBS June 6 and ABC June 7.

—The New York Times and the Washington Star-News reported that Job S. Magruder, former second-in-command at the Nixon re-election campaign, is the figure who has promised prosecutors he will plead guilty and testify against others in the case. It isn't clear what charges Magruder may face, but he has been accused informally of perjury, pressuring another to commit perjury, and planning the Watergate wire-tapping itself.

—Magruder, who resigned April 26 from a $36,000-a-year policy job at the Commerce Department, was found to have been rehired last Monday by President Nixon's inaugural committee at an undisclosed salary. The job is temporary. The committee goes out of existence in a week.

Cox, 61, faces uncertainty among the team of federal prosecutors who have handled the Watergate grand jury until now.

They have promised new indictments in two to three months. But reliable sources have reported that the three, headed by Asst. U.S. Atty. Earl (Turn To Page Six)

Editorial Comment

All Is Not Gloom In Base Closings

Americans have nursed so long at the federal breast that the mere thought of having to get along on their own gives them severe teething problems.

Cries of anguish went up across the land at the recent announcement by the Department of Defense that it planned to shut down or cut back 274 domestic military bases, eliminating some 26,200 civilian and 16,600 military jobs.

Closing of the Air Force Base in Laredo, Tex., claimed Mayor J. C. Martin, will deprive his city of $15 million a year. "I was stunned," he said. "We are economically dependent on the base."

In Rhode Island, where the Navy is the state's largest employer, Democratic Rep. Fernand St. Germain predicted that closing of all naval facilities in Newport would have "consequences that may approach that of the depression of the '30s."

As usual, Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater had a biting comment: "It is ironic that members of Congress who have yelled the loudest in recent years for lower defense spending are among those complaining because establishments in their states were closed."

A funny thing has been happening, however, on the way to the closing.

As noted by Alan L. Otten in the Wall Street Journal, "a disproportionately large share of military installations and defense contracts seems to gravitate to the home areas of high-ranking members of committees dealing with military matters."

According to a survey by Congressional Quarterly, he says, two-thirds of the members of the Senate and House Armed Services committees represent states or districts where military outlays are the largest source of federal funds.

One city that will not be having teething problems is New Orleans, which happens to be the home district of Rep. F. Edward Hebert, who happens to be the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

Indeed, Rep. Hebert issued a press release in March informing his constituents that 1,700 new jobs and millions of dollars in military payrolls and construction outlays were coming into the district—"undoubtedly the largest single move made by any branch of the military into the New Orleans area in history."

Some of the Navy personnel are being transferred from Omaha. This elicited a blast from Sen. Carl Curtis of Nebraska who claimed that the whole thing was "an attempt by the Navy to cater to the demands and wishes" of Rep. Hebert and that rather than saving money, the moves would cost the taxpayers an extra $41.5 million or more.

But all is not gloom for those communities not fortunate enough to have friends on the congressional military committees.

According to Members of Congress for Peace through Law, a group of congressmen dedicated to trimming the fat off defense budgets, the closing of a base does not necessarily result in economic disaster.

Preliminary findings in a study being conducted by the MCPL show that in communities which have received special assistance after local base closings, 79,456 defense-oriented jobs were replaced by 80,762 new non-defense jobs.

Moreover, base closings have provided communities with vocational and technical training facilities for 10,000 students, 3,000 former military housing units to meet civilian housing needs and facilities for industrial parks and recreation areas.

Peking's Press Effrontery

The Chinese government has overtly attempted to influence the advertising policy of the New York Times. The kindest thing to be said is that this piece of effrontery must be based on failure to understand what freedom of the press is all about.

Peking has often voiced more or less informal objections to the Times' publication of political ads paid for by anti-Peking groups and the Chiang Kai-shek regime in Taiwan. Recently the level of objection was stepped up: the counsel to the Chinese mission to the United Nations protested face to face to the paper's managing editor.

The editor replied that it was a matter of policy to carry advertisements expressing any political view, whether or not the Times agrees with it. He said it was felt that this is a part of freedom of the press. The editor also asked, "Does that mean you will not allow us to open a bureau in Peking?" and received the reply, "You can draw your own conclusions."

The conclusion one comes to is that this is indeed what Peking means: knuckle under to our official views on political ads, or forego the privilege of maintaining a bureau in our capital city. That is, as remarked above, a piece of effrontery. If Peking genuinely seeks to improve U.S.-Chinese relations, it would do well to recognize that it cannot tamper with American freedom of the press.

Panel Free To Examine Nixon's Watergate Role

By GEORGE J. MARDER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — In waiving any claim to executive privilege on testimony about wrongdoing committed on his behalf during the 1972 election campaigns, President Nixon has removed all wraps from the Senate investigation of the role of the White House in the Watergate affair.

The waiver apparently will permit witnesses to testify about discussions with the President if they related to Watergate in any way.

Previously Nixon had ordered witnesses to remain silent when asked any questions about contacts, verbally or written, with him.

His new position on the matter of executive privilege avoided a potential clash with the Senate committee investigating Watergate. It was doubtful the committee would recognize executive privilege on questions concerned with criminal acts or skulduggery in the 1972 campaigns. A confrontation was sure to develop unless the President backed down. He did.

Committee is Free
Now the committee is free to find out whether the President had any role in Watergate other than what he has acknowledged.

On April 30, Nixon stated he accepted responsibility for White House involvement in Watergate, but that his staff misled him.

On May 22, however, Nixon conceded he could have created the climate that fostered Watergate, and he acknowledged there had been a coverup and he had limited the investigation because he feared national security was involved.

Nixon listed this sequence of events:

—In 1970 he approved a plan to spy on those involved in the antiwar movement and the violence sweeping college campuses. J. Edgar Hoover opposed and scuttled the plan, which included authority for intelligence agents to commit burglary.

Domestic Intelligence

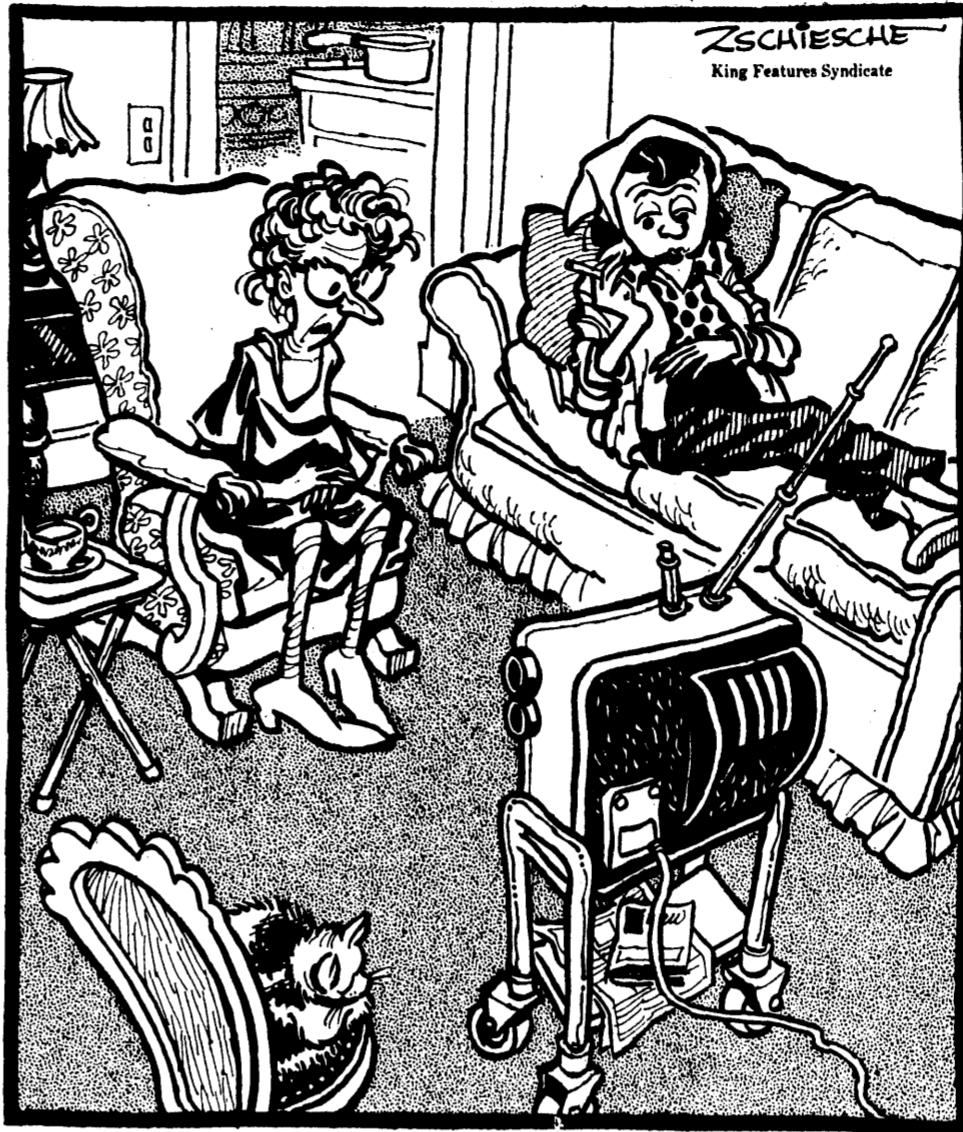

—One month after that plan was abandoned, Nixon created a White House-level intelligence evaluation committee. Its assignment was to evaluate and estimate domestic intelligence—the field intended to be covered by the plan Hoover opposed. That group's activities are being investigated, and Nixon says that if it engaged in illegal activity, it did so without his knowledge or authority. The group was created because of Nixon's dissatisfaction with the FBI under Hoover.

—After publication of the Pentagon Papers, Nixon created a special White House intelligence group known as "the plumbers" to trace government leaks. That group later got other intelligence assignments.

Nixon, who said all those intelligence activities had nothing to do with Watergate, became worried that the CIA may have been involved with the bugging scandal. He ordered the FBI to keep hands off any national security matters, and told top aides John Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman to contact the CIA to make sure that the intelligence operations were kept secret. However, the CIA says Ehrlichman and Haldeman tried to persuade the CIA to fictionalize involvement in Watergate, and therefore stifle FBI investigations.

And that's where it stands today—with the White House insisting that national security matters still are off limits.

'Oh, These Watergate Hearings! What About Ellen's Tumor And Don Marrying Lisa?'

McGovern A 'Plot' Victor? Pooh-Pooh!

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Reports that men linked to the Watergate plottings set out to assure that the Democrats in 1972 picked the weakest possible presidential nominee to oppose President Nixon should be viewed with care.

The game, of course, was supposed to be to use dirty tricks to defeat the presumably strong Sen. Edmund Muskie and by other devices to promote the candidacy of Sen. George McGovern, perceived by early polling evidence as eminently crushable.

Tricks clearly were employed against Muskie, he faded early as the Democrats' front-runner, and McGovern did win his party's nomination.

To a good many political viewers, and especially to those men said to have been trying to engineer such an outcome, that may look persuasively like cause and effect.

But some of us who watched that campaign closely are not persuaded that a result which involved the votes of millions of voters and the political skills and energies of many individuals can be "determined" by a band of undercover manipulators—no matter how devilishly clever and well-heeled.

In the always well-publicized jump-off primary in New Hampshire, Muskie got his first wounds. Reporters had said, in their infinite wisdom, that he had to win at least 50 per cent of the vote to be impressive. He beat McGovern by just 46 per cent to 37, and the tongues clucked.

Careful post-game analysts think they can show at least one trick, a fake letter, hurt him in key Manchester.

That, of course, was the untraceable letter purporting to prove that, in a small Florida meeting, Muskie made slurs on citizens of French-Canadian ancestry, who bulk large in New Hampshire and other New England states. Surveys indicated many such people in Manchester believed the slurs, and Muskie's vote was demonstrably affected in their areas.

But, well before that letter surfaced, Muskie men in New Hampshire told me and others that their tiger was in trouble, that he wasn't in the state often enough and wasn't scoring when he came. They were trying to sell "46 per cent" as an acceptable winning proportion.

Thoughts

"Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father who is in heaven."—Matthew 5:16.

The smallest actual good is better than the most magnificent promise of impossibilities.—Thomas Macaulay, English historian.

Furthermore, he suffered severe damage when, on a snowy Saturday in late February, he climbed aboard a flatbed truck in front of William Loeb's Manchester Union Leader offices and cried—not about the fake letter but over criticisms he felt were aimed at his wife, in an interview reprinted by Loeb but written by a woman reporter for Women's Wear Daily.

Are we to presume the girl was on the Nixon plotters' payroll?

The plotters also passed around a phony Muskie letter in Florida, which had him casting aspersions on the private lives of two rivals, Sens. Humphrey and Jackson. Yet reporters who covered the Florida primary found Muskie sadly unimpressive on the trail, and most had correctly awarded the prize there to Gov. George Wallace the moment he entered the race.

In Wisconsin, where McGovern won his first primary and Muskie again flopped, many GOP voters crossed over to vote either for McGovern or Wallace. Were they all willing agents of the Nixon plotters?

Muskie failed and McGovern triumphed nationally for a lot of complex reasons, most of which the plotters never dreamed of.

Discovers All Four Children Have Different Fathers

Dear Ann Landers: About six years ago I accidentally discovered through blood-typing that I could not be the biological father of one of my children. After confronting my wife with the scientific evidence, she confessed it was true, and named the man who had fathered the child. Two days later she admitted that every one of our four children have different fathers. None is mine. I walked around in a state of shock for a week. Finally I had a long talk with my clergyman and my doctor. They both asked me if I felt any resentment against the children. I said no. They then asked me if I could forgive my wife. I said yes. At that point, I was advised to keep the family together and decided I'd do it. I figured she was a good wife and mother with a sex problem.

What I need to know is this, Ann. Do you feel that the children, now that they are teenagers, should be told who their real fathers are? Every one of these men lives in town and has a family. I ask this question because it might be a bad thing if our teen-age son, for example, should fall in love with his half-sister and not know she was related. What do you say? —Deceived

Dear Deceived: I say — say nothing. The chances of one of your children marrying a half-sister or brother are probably remote. If it appears that such a marriage might occur, consult your physician about the genetic hazards. The emotional impact on your children, should you tell them might be disastrous.

a lot to learn and I know someone who could teach him.

I rode the school bus for three years, 50 miles a day, 25 miles to and 25 from. Our driver had no problem with kids fighting and screaming. He wouldn't put up with it. When there was any commotion he simply pulled the bus over to the shoulder of the road and stopped. He never said one word. In fact he didn't even turn around — just looked into his rear-view mirror and the culprits knew that they were being observed.

When things calmed down (it usually took less than a minute) he'd get the bus rolling again. This man never had an accident and all the kids had a lot of respect for him.

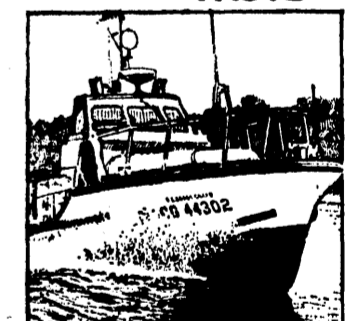

So, Ann, whenever you get a letter from a bus driver who complains that the kids are running wild on his bus and jeopardizing their lives, toss it right back. Ask what's the matter with HIM? — Wyoming

Dear Wyoming: It is the responsibility of the driver to deliver his cargo safely. Obstinate behavior is as much of a safety hazard as faulty brakes. The disciplinary measure you described sounds perfect. I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: I can't understand the logic of the young couples who don't want to have children because "there are already too many people fouling up the environment." Yet they have a dog or a cat, or both. Don't animals breathe oxygen and excrete waste? I'm for ecological preservation, but what about this nonsense? —I Like Kids

Dear I.L.K.: Any couple who would rather have a pet than a child should have it. It's their right. I'd hate to be born into a family that would rather have had a dog or a cat. How about you?

Law For Today

Q. The state police patrol cars in our area often park off the road where it is difficult for motorists to see them and use this as a vantage point from which to detect speeders by radar. Isn't this an illegal "speed trap"?

A. In a word, no. Under state law, use of electronic speed-detecting devices is prohibited within 500 feet in the direction of travel of any sign which announces a change in the maximum speed limit. However, there is no law that prohibits state police patrol cars from parking off the roadway. As a matter of fact, one reason for doing so is safety since so many accidents have been caused by motorists who ran into parked radar patrol cars.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)—Though this may prove a difficult day for you, it need not cause you to put a stop to at-home activities that keep you rested and happy.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)—Apply your talents intelligently to the project at hand. You have no reason to fear the future; spend your time preparing for it optimistically.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)—You must concede the possibility of error before you will be able to persuade a friend that you're really ready for a reconciliation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)—Your own interpretation of recent events will lead you to make the right decisions where your personal needs are concerned. Keep a clear head.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)—You might be wise to at least listen to a little spiritual advice. There's nothing in the rule book that says you have to credit what you hear.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)—The "logical minds" of the neighborhood may belittle your efforts to come up with something new along the lines of a time-saver. Keep at it, regardless.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)—Morning worship puts you in contact with more than one idea of excellent quality. Seek spiritual succor from one whose humor is well developed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)—Know another's shortcomings and failures; that is the only way you are going to understand him well enough to get along with him.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)—Though you may have instincts that would take you out of the ordinary competition, you would do better to keep to the well-beaten path.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)—Make certain your knowledge of the opposition is correct. You can make yourself a better person—and still keep your old interests intact.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)—So long as you have a scientific basis for your recent decisions to change the course of your career, all should be well. Investigate thoroughly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)—Influences working on your behalf should be enough today to guarantee you a winning afternoon and evening. Morning hours may be rough on your ego.

Mets Outlast LA In 7-3 Marathon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rusty Staub doubled home the go-ahead run as the New York Mets scored four runs in the 19th inning to beat Los Angeles 7-3 Thursday night and end the longest game in Dodger history.

The marathon contest took five hours and 42 minutes to play and featured a six-hit performance by the Dodgers' Willie Davis that tied a club record.

Both teams wasted several scoring opportunities before the Mets broke through for their winning rally. The Mets and Dodgers collected a total of 40 hits before the game finally ended at 4:44 a.m., EST.

Cleon Jones opened the 19th with a single to left and raced home on Staub's double to break a 3-3 tie that existed from the eighth inning.

The Mets then put the game on ice with an RBI single by Ken Boswell and two-run double by Ed Kranepool.

Until that juncture, Davis had been a one-man gang for the Dodgers, stroking six singles to tie a team record set by Cookie Lavagetto with the old Brooklyn Dodgers in 1939.

Trailing 3-1, the Mets tied the game with a run in the seventh and another in the eighth. Bud Harrelson's double knocked in a Met run in the seventh and George Theodore's RBI single tied the game in the eighth.

The UMW of the Murrayville United Methodist church met May 15th at the home of president Dorothy Baker for the annual May breakfast. Assistant hostesses were Louise Ommen, Ethel Slinger, and Romona Gollier. Preceding the breakfast the group repeated the Wesleyan grace.

The president called the meeting to order and gave a short devotion on Love, ending with prayer. Helen Wilson gave the lesson, God Loves Us.

Mildred Mutch read the secretary's report and Delores Wilson gave the treasurer's report. Roll call was answered by 19 members.

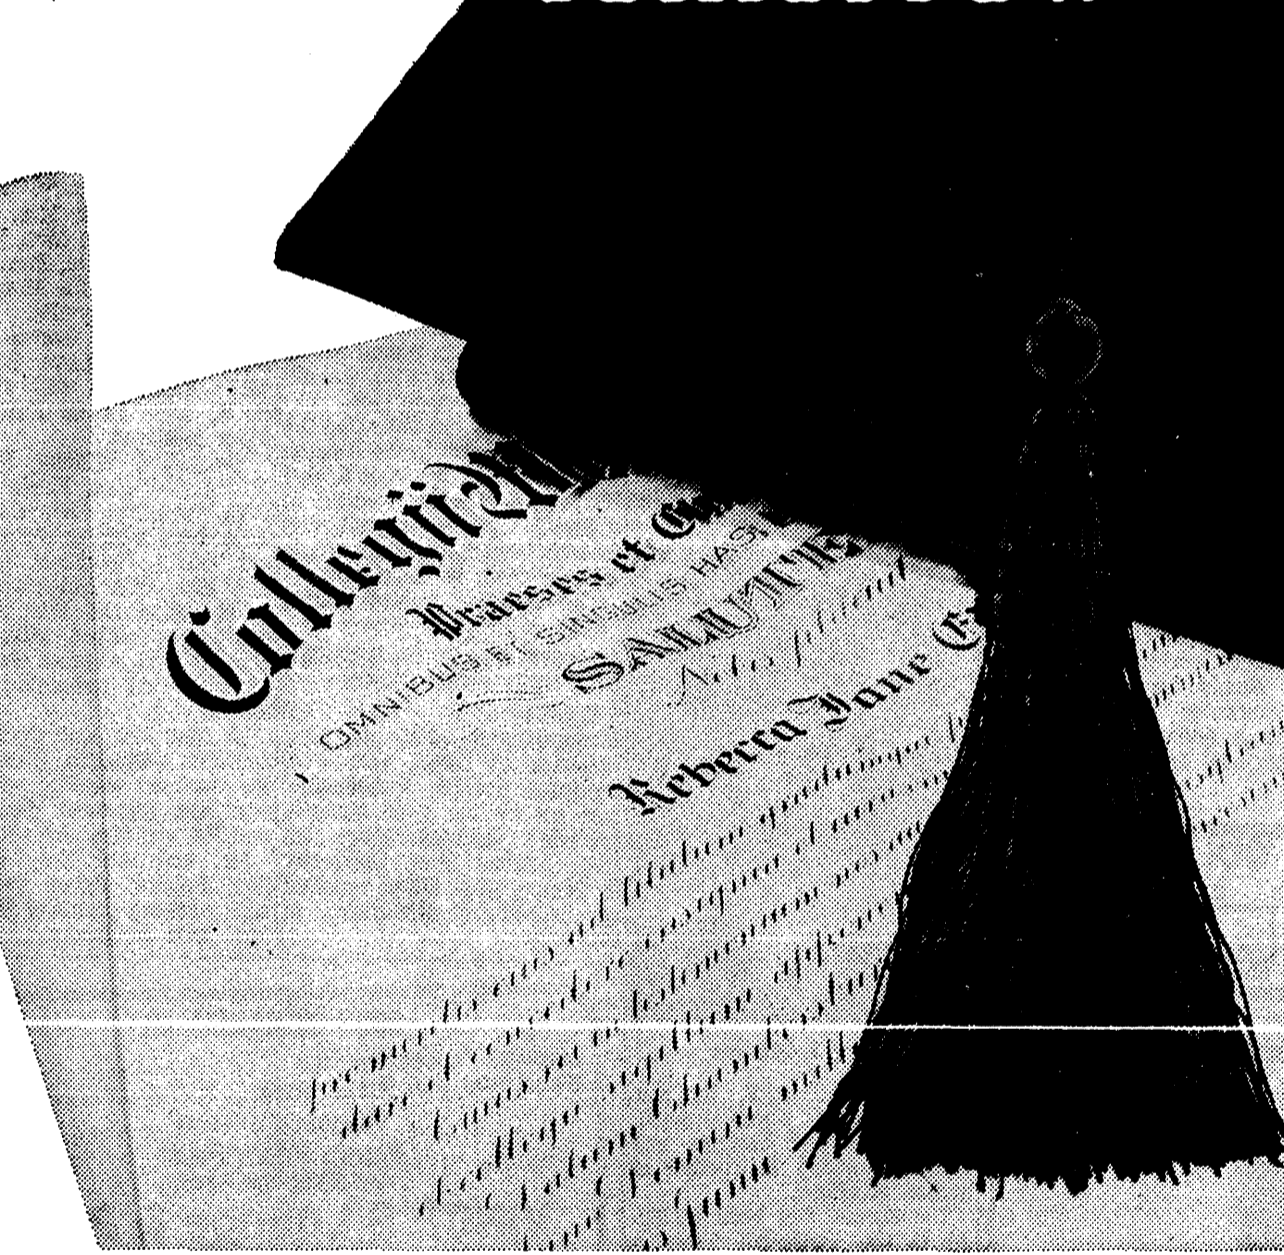

The society voted to give thirty dollars for the youth camp and twenty-five dollars to the flood relief. Several gave reports from the Retreat meeting May 3 at the UMC in Franklin. There were 47 sick calls made during the month of April.

Spiritual growth chairman, Elsie Tendick, read the story, Neighborly Love, closing with prayer.

The next meeting will be 2 p.m. June 7th at the home of Mabel Rimbey.

The world's largest diamond weighed 3.106 metric carats-one pound six ounces-when it was dug out of a South African diamond pit with a penknife in 1905.

And now, tomorrow

The cap... the diploma... symbols of achievement. They mark the end of one way of life and imply the beginning of another.

But ten years from now, where will this diploma be and what will it mean? Will it be packed away in an attic trunk... framed on the wall of a room or office? Will it have been thrown out by accident or cast into a seldom-noticed corner? And what of the hopes and dreams that go with it? What will have happened to them?

Who knows? There is no set answer to life, no single solution to all its problems. Nor can anyone live life alone. Whether your diploma is still crisp or has gotten dusty-whether your dreams are still bright or have become slightly tarnished-forget about personal ambition as the sole answer to everything. Think of your own immortal soul. Go to church, and talk to God about it, through prayer.

Snapper will cut your lawn, vacuum grass, leaves, and light litter at the same time.

With the Snapper grass catcher attachment, you can actually vacuum clean you lawn as you mow. No more hours of tedious raking.

The Snapper grass catcher holds six full bushels. And it empties in seconds.

But there's more to this great Snapper option than just how good it is. Another important thing is where it is: mounted on the back, instead of sticking out on the side like most mowers. With the Snapper grass catcher behind you, you have maximum maneuverability and the easiest handling possible.

THE U.S. BIRTH RATE--WHERE IT HAS BEEN AND WHERE IT MAY GO

As the U.S. birth rate goes down, so do the predictions. Left side of chart shows actual birth rate since 1912. On right side are four predictions of possible future rates by the Census Bureau. Before 1968, the series were lettered A through D, with A being the highest and D the lowest projections. At the end of 1967, series A was dropped and a new lower series E was added. At the end of 1972, series B was dropped and a new lower prediction, series F, was added, as the birth rate per 1000 population dropped to its lowest level in history. Already there are signs that series F may be too high.

SILVER STATUS SYMBOL RACINE, Wis. (AP) — In 17th-century England you always knew where you stood even when you were sitting down. The Goddard Co.'s James Thornton, consultant on silver care to the royal palace of Great Britain, points out that the salt cellar was the social barometer of the table. If you sat below it you were a nonentity; if you were seated between it and the head of the table your status was secure — and undoubtedly your credit rating as well.

Nowadays collecting old salts, especially silver ones, can be a costly hobby. Eighteenth-century examples go from $1,500 to $4,000 a pair.

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — Government scientists are working on a plan to produce power by forcing cold water through cracked hot granite deep under an extinct volcano and returning heated water to the surface.

TINY RAILROAD CHARGED WITH HOLDING BOXCARS

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP) — Another large firm has become involved with tiny LaSalle-Bureau County Railroad because of things that happen in LaSalle's railroad yard.

Medic Enterprises of New Jersey filed suit in Circuit Court Thursday charging LaSalle with illegally holding, altering and renting 66 boxcars owned by the New Jersey company. The suit asks for more than $1 million in damages.

LaSalle, primarily a boxcar rental firm, was involved in 1971 with freight cars missing from the Penn Central Railroad. The FBI located several Penn Central cars at the LaSalle-Bureau County yards. The cars were ordered returned to the Penn Central. The LaSalle firm was not implicated in the routing mix-up that caused the boxcars to disappear from Penn Central.

Medic Enterprises, a freight-car leasing company, said the LaSalle-Bureau County Railroad held its cars, painted them and rented them to other companies.

The dry geothermal energy, never exploited, would be self-contained, nonpolluting, relatively inexpensive and probably self-perpetuating, said Dr. Morton Smith who is group leader of the project at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory.

He said there is enough hot rock in the West to enable the new system to "produce all the power we need for several thousand years" with existing types of power plants.

Although geothermal experiments initially would be confined to the western United States, the concept itself is "applicable anywhere in the nation," said assistant group leader Don Brown.

Brown said the United States can be divided generally into two geological sections, divided by the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains.

Geothermal energy is easiest to tap in the West where, he said, "it appears the earth's crust is thinner," but could also be tapped in the East as well.

Copper Is Life And Death For Butte

THE ORE that made a boom town is still there. But times and mining techniques change, and today "The Richest Hill on Earth" has become a hole in the ground.

By TOM TIEDE

BUTTE, Mont. (NEA)—Every day at noon at dynamite blast goes off here which rattles windows, cracks ceilings, wakes up babies—and disintegrates into pollution another chunk of the metropolitan area.

But does anyone complain? No one complains. Sigh: Anaconda giveth and Anaconda taketh away.

The famed mining company, which years ago put Butte on the map, now threatens to wipe it off. After more than a century of digging away the outskirts of town, Anaconda's operation is now jiggling away the town itself. Already one suburb of Butte has disappeared.

Residents along some streets can actually see the earth disappearing in front of their homes. Right now Anaconda is within four blocks of the business district—and tomorrow? Tomorrow, says longtime Butte resident Tripp Prentice, "There won't be anything left here but a hole in the ground."

He could be right. Making the most of what it calls "The Richest Hill on Earth," Anaconda switched from deep to strip mining in 1955. In the two decades since, they have scraped some 750-million pounds of earth, and, in the process, created a stupefying ever-enlarging pit on the edge of town. Anaconda officials do not say what will happen next, but most in Butte have few illusions; already some of the downtown stores have relocated on land out of the juggernaut's way.

Indeed, relocation has evolved as the community's primary solution to Anaconda's expanding copper pit. Rather than organize to fight engulfment, the citizens prefer simply to make way. And small wonder. Butte is a classic company town; it owes not only its past and present to Anaconda, but also, so residents say, its future.

Oaths

At the White House ceremony, Richardson didn't refer specifically to the Watergate scandal. But he said, "These are times when the institutions of our government are under stress."

"It is not because the structure is not sound. It is sound," he told an audience in the East Room.

"If there are flaws, they are in ourselves. The task is not one of redesign but one of renewal and reaffirmation."

Richardson's wife Anne held two Bibles for the ceremony and two of his three children, Nancy, 16, and Henry, 18, were in the audience.

Cox, was sworn in at the Justice Department. He will have the rank of an assistant attorney general and the salary of $38,000 yearly.

In 110 years of mining, The Company, as it's called here, has extracted 28 billion pounds of copper, zinc and magnesium from the area. This has provided jobs for up to a third of the Butte work force and shouldered as much as 50 per cent of the area's tax responsibility.

"Actually," says one politician here, "everybody in Butte works for The Company. Because if it wasn't for The Company, there wouldn't be any other business to work for."

But besides the longtime loyalties to Anaconda, residents have another reason for going along with The Company's expansion. If Butte is a company town, Montana may be a company state. It is the only state, at least, which allows mining companies (read it: Anaconda) the right of eminent domain. The Montana legislature believes that since mining is a public use, mining concerns must have near-governmental authority. Thus, even if Butte residents tried to fight the deterioration of their town, they could not in the end legally stop an Anaconda push.

Occasionally, some few have tried to buck The Company. Years ago one homeowner in the path of progress refused to accept Anaconda's bid for his land. His protest was small and ultimately squelched.

The Company didn't even bother to take him to town," says a local newspaperman, "they just built a fence around his place and left him there isolated. You can see it today. It's all surrounded by Anaconda. Everybody else, of course, sold out."

Currently, at least one other immediately threatened property owner is balking. Tom Gergurich, 56, owner of a small bar which sits on the pit's east edge, says he's not selling unless he gets a "better offer." Also, some suburban residents have recently banded together to protest the proposed opening of a second Anaconda pit in their area; the suburbanites are complaining that the second pit will close Butte's major children's playground and devalue otherwise fine residential property.

Then too there are some sighs of exasperation on the state level. The Montana legislature has recently discussed a proposal to alter the laws regarding the private sector's right of eminent domain. State Sen. Herbert Klindt, of Billings, says that too many mining companies (read it again: Anaconda) are using "psychological warfare, threats and badgering" to acquire land title for corporate use.

Yet there aren't many standing up to The Company. Discretion is as much a part of Butte as the sulphur fumes. Individual wariness, in fact, takes on exaggerated proportions here. There are numerous sad stories of people who have been bodily injured by Anaconda's daily blasting but who fearfully refuse to complain.

Says a woman clerk at Butte's Ramada Inn motel: I remember when my daughter signed a petition against The Company building a road through our neighborhood. Well, my husband works for Anaconda and he was called into the office about the matter. That's the way it is. They have a hold on everybody."

Thus the apathy in Butte, and mass resignation. "The pit just isn't controversial here," says newspaper editor Al Darr. Adds Mayor Mario Milcone, frankly: "This is a mining town and people are used to the mining company. They are also used to the mining company being right."

John Malensek, for example. He lives on a street being eaten up by the Anaconda pit. His walls shake during the noon blasting, his siding is covered with copper dust, and every hour of every day he can hear the roar of the 150-ton trucks in the hole beneath his living room. Yet gripe? Not he. He doesn't work for The Company, doesn't owe it anything, yet displays only a quiet, resigned and proper respect. Well, he says, "They got to get the ore out of there don't they?"

Confused

(Continued From Page One) untie the boys or something," the detective said. "A bit later, he got the morning paper and saw where they had been free since before lunchtime the previous day."

On Thursday, police arrested Robert Fultz, 35, and charged him with kidnapping for ransom. They were led to Fultz on the basis of their own investigation and by a composite drawing of the kidnaper put together with help from the three boys.

No doubt. The proven and potential resources still in Butte's earth are estimated to be more than the nation's total requirement for the next 50 years. More than $1 billion worth of precious metal is said to lie under the town alone. So, the juggernaut continues. And what the hell, say citizens here, Butte has deteriorated so much in the last century maybe the Anaconda expansion is a blessing. Sort of a dynamite Urban Renewal.

THYMUS HORMONE CANCER-FIGHTING CAPACITY CITED

LONDON (UPI)—One of the hopeful signs in the long fight against cancer is that the defense system of the body does not give up without a fight. A good deal of research is now being devoted to strengthening its ability to repel malignant attacks. In a recent lecture Prof. Nathan Trainin of the Cell Biology Department of the Weismann Institute of Science in Israel said there was a possibility a hormone-like substance secreted by the thymus gland may play an important role in the process of immunization against cancer.

Evidence of Link Prof. Trainin told the First International Health Conference in Tel Aviv that there is experimental and clinical evidence indicating a link between the body's immunological defenses and the development of cancer. He said a study carried out over the past five years had shown that the thymus gland secretion regulates the development of white blood cells which, in turn, play a key role in suppressing cancer.

Thus, he said, he had reached the conclusion that when the thymus ceases to operate, either because it is removed or because of its natural shrinking away due to aging, the immune response diminishes and there is a greater probability of tumors developing.

Gland in Chest Cavity The thymus gland is found in the chest cavity of mammals. Prof. Trainin said that when the thymus is removed from the body of an animal its immunological capacity is reduced. When it is reimplanted the immunological capacity is increased.

The immediate goal of his research is to isolate the thymus hormone responsible for the body's cancer-fighting capacity. Afterwards, he said, it will have to be determined whether this hormone, injected into human beings as it is now being injected into laboratory animals, will increase their immunological defenses against cancer.

Prof. Trainin was born in the Argentine and received his medical degree from Cordova University. He is medical adviser to the Israel Cancer Association.

Skylab

Conrad decided to try the space walk after a variety of other docking attempts failed.

"We might as well go ahead," said Conrad wearily.

The astronauts were not actually floating free in space during the docking repair attempt, but rather worked inside the command ship.

Air in the space cabin, however, was evacuated and the astronauts were protected from vacuum of space only by their bulky white suits and helmets.

The space walk was the last alternative to dock Friday night with the stricken Skylab. The astronauts had earlier tried without success several different methods, including some suggested by Mission Control.

During the space walk the astronauts were to don their space suits, evacuate the air from their craft and then take out the cranky docking probe, a Mission Control spokesman said. The spacemen would examine the probe, searching for the source of the problem.

Conrad repeatedly poked the nose of the cone-shaped Apollo command ship into the Skylab docking collar but a series of latches failed to engage and lock the two crafts together.

At that point Mission Control suggested a "final docking attempt, an EVA (extra vehicular activity)."

Conrad said that was fine with him. "You guys have run out of ideas, haven't you?" he said.

The procedure would not in the strict sense be a space walk. The astronauts would remain inside the command ship, but they would be protected from the vacuum of space only by their bulky-white suits and bubble helmets.

The unsuccessful docking came only minutes after the astronauts also failed to free a jammed solar power panel on the $294 million Skylab.

The failures came less than 12 hours after the mission began with promise and hope in a flawless launch from Cape Kennedy. They artfully chased and caught up with the orbiting space station in 7½ hours.

Mission Control suggested he close two circuit breakers. This would give the astronaut the force of four rocket thrusters instead of two. The small rockets are used to push the Apollo craft against the Skylab's docking port.

"I did that last time," said Conrad. "We'll try the third one and if it doesn't do it I guess it means another super-duper EVA (space walk)."

Nixon Drops To Lowest Point In Gallup Poll

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — President Richard Nixon's popularity has dropped to the lowest point since he took office, according to the latest Gallup poll.

The poll, taken between May 4 and 6, showed 45 per cent of those interviewed approved of the way the President was doing his job.

The figure compares with 68 per cent approval in November 1969 and January 1973, the high since he has been in office.

The latest poll occurred after his April 30 television address in which he denied he had any prior knowledge of the Watergate affair or subsequent cover-up attempt.

His highest popularity rating followed the television addresses in which he announced his plans for ending the war in Vietnam and the peace agreement.

According to a Gallup spokesman, the popularity rating usually goes up after a national address. But the President's didn't after the April 30 television talk.

The President's popularity remained fairly high among Republicans in the latest poll. Seventy-four per cent approved. But only one in four Democrats approved, for a figure of 24 per cent. Forty-nine per cent calling themselves independents approved.

Those sampled were 1,531 adults, 18 years and older, at 300 different locations across the country.

President Nixon's popularity average so far is 57 per cent, the Gallup spokesman said. President Johnson's average in office was 54 per cent, President Kennedy's 70 per cent, President Eisenhower's 66 per cent and President Truman's 46 per cent.

KIWANIS OFFICERS ELECTED THURSDAY AT NOON MEETING

New officers were elected at the last meeting of the Jacksonville Kiwanis Club for the administrative year beginning October 1, 1973. Those elected were Mike Biloz, president; Tom Taylor, vice president; Cornell Kane, treasurer. Board of directors (two-year term), Dave Bone, Jack Gillespie, Hobie Hinderliter, Lee Roy Jackson, Jr.

The local Kiwanis Club was chartered on September 15, 1921, and has been in existence since that date. The club is unique in that it was not sponsored by another club. Early in 1921 Reverend Frank McCarty, who had formerly been pastor of the Centenary Methodist Church in Jacksonville was visiting here. While visiting with his good friend Mayor Edgar E. Crabtree, he said he had joined a new club in Quincy called the Kiwanis Club and thought Jacksonville should have such a club.

From that beginning, it has grown from a membership of 14 men to its present number of over 110 men. At the time of the charter, it was the fourth club in the Illinois-Eastern Iowa District of Kiwanis International.

The following men were elected to office on that date in 1921: President, Felix E. Farrell; Vice President, Dr. Frank A. Norris; Secretary, Fletcher Hopper; Treasurer, Charles E. Williamson; Board of Directors: Percy Coover, Dr. William H. Weirich, Thomas Worthington, Rev. Ernest L. Fletcher, Marcus A. Hulet, Dr. Alpha B. Applebee. Rev. Thomas Smith, and Trustee, Carl E. Robinson.

From that beginning, the Kiwanis Club has grown, but continues to believe in and work within the motto of Kiwanis International—"We Build."

Things That Make Life Worth Living:

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living: The mind-blowing scene of a puppy's first puzzled confrontation with a grown cat. Reading Emily Dickinson's poetry when you're trying to get over a broken love affair. Getting an apology from your bank for making a mistake in your account. Finding that your best friend in kindergarten isn't trying to take away your girl. Walking across a field near twilight and hearing the summons of the meadowlarks and wondering from what small protection of grass they summon such superb assurance. store, that works beautifully. It looks like real frosted glass and really improves the looks of my door, cannot be seen through from either side and admits light but not direct sunshine. This paper is quite inexpensive. I have a Pointer on another subject — sewing — and it concerns making creases in pant legs. Mary W. wrote that she presses the creases front and back, after sewing the pants together but before hemming and turning down the top. I find it much easier to fold each piece in half, wrong sides together, immediately after cutting and marking and before sewing anything together. This means no matching of inner and outer seams, just each cut edge of each pants piece. The front creases may be stitched close to the edge before sewing any seam, which is quite simple. I hope Mary and the other girls will try my method. — DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY — Those who crochet or knit eventually have quite a collection of different yarns but have forgotten which is wool, which is orlon or something similar. I have been crocheting high hats for my grandsons (everyone at school has one) so I had to come up with my own method for categorizing the yarn. I cut a two-inch length from each ball and one by one, lighted the ends with a match. The wool only burns a little at each end then goes out but smells like hair burning. Orlon or nylon continues burning and rolls into a melted ball on the end of the length as it burns. I only cut two-inch pieces for fear one might be inflammable and such a short length is less likely to cause a burn. — RUTH I.

Dummy's queen of diamonds lost to East's king. East huddled and led back the five of spades. "Greed is a terrible thing," thought South. "My partner would have had no trouble with three no-trump and on account of 100 honors I am likely to be chucking game and rubber out the window. If I duck this spade, West will get in and lead a second diamond. I will have to finesse dummy's 10 and may go down two. On the other hand if I grab the spade, draw trumps and lead a club I will lose two spades and a club and the diamond already lost." Then South had an inspiration. East had worried a lot about his lead to trick two. Maybe East was under leading the king-queen-jack of spades. South played his 10. It held and all South's worries were over. As a matter of fact he made an overtrick.

East's spade play deserved a better fate. Had he led back an honor, South could have ducked; won the second spade and eventually discarded a spade on one of dummy's club honors.

Would he have made this play? We think so. Anyone who could come up with that 10-spot play could be expected to handle most other problems.

Business — Market Wrapup

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, despite having a difficult act to follow, turned in another strong performance Friday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks added 6.40 points to its 29.42 gain of Thursday, finishing the week at 930.84.

Gainers outran losers 1,141 to 385, almost duplicating Thursday's wide spread, in active turnover of 19.27 million shares on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said Friday's rise contained elements of the normal upward tendency of trading just before an extended holiday weekend, but they also said the market seemed to be riding some strong psychological momentum generated in Thursday's impressive surge.

One important psychological factor, in the view of several analysts, was the fact that the market turned in its strong showing in the face of seemingly adverse news such as the prime-rate increase announced by many banks late in the week.

Winnipeg Industries was the Big Board's most-heavily traded issue, gaining 1/4 to 7/8.

On the American Stock Exchange, TWA warrants, up 1/2 to 12 1/2, led the active list.

STP Corp., also among the Amex actives, skidded 2 1/4 to 7/4. A group associated with Ralph Nader asked the Federal Trade Commission Thursday to declare STP's oil treatment "a worthless product."

The company said Friday the group's charges were "unfounded and irresponsible."

The Amex's price-change index ran up its largest daily gain since Jan. 4, tacking a 19 rise onto Thursday's .14 gain to close at 22.76.

The NYSE's index of some 1,500 common stocks rose 0.51 to 56.96.

The NASDAQ composite index for the Over-the-Counter market was up 0.90 at 105.17.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Those who claim to see equilibrium returning to the economy later this year are saying that the furious surge in prices during the first quarter was the result of exceptional circumstances.

These same circumstances,

we are advised, will exert progressively less pressure on prices as the year wears on, and the economy will resume the sane, normal course plotted for it by the nation's leaders.

The blame, therefore, is placed on unforeseen events, on "temporary forces," as it was put by Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. No policy changes are required, Stein said in congressional testimony.

And what were these temporary phenomena that wrecked the plans? First, a spurt in food prices, Stein indicated, curiously confusing cause and effect. Yes, prices rose because prices rose, but why did they rise?

One reason was the sale of grain to the Soviets. Another was a sharp downturn in Peruvian fishmeal production, which caused expensive feeds to be provided to livestock. And there was poor weather.

Another explanation is that there was a surge in economic activity, which again sounds more like the effect of short-sight economic policy rather than an explanation of why a sound policy foundered.

If it is the job of the Council of Economic Advisers to analyze probabilities and adjust their planning, why wasn't the surge foreseen and appropriate action taken? A temporary lapse?

Next on the list of explanations is the dollar devaluation, which caused an increase in the price of imports, and then the shift of wage-price controls from Phase 2 restraint to Phase 3 confusion.

It can be assumed that, even if the likelihood of a dollar devaluation were foreseen, it reality couldn't have been effectively worked into planning. But the shift from Phase 2 to Phase

3 is entirely the administration's doing.

So also is the administration's responsibility for allowing fears to grow among buyers that sent them on a spending spree to avoid higher prices and the tendency of sellers to mark up prices in fear of another freeze.

But as Stein argues, "Most of these phenomena were, we believe, temporary," and that brings up the question of what temporary phenomena might possibly intrude in coming months.

One possibility is that workers will become more adamant about raises. One thing that typical Americans cannot abide is the feeling they have lost

Japan Biggest Buyer Of U.S. Farm Products

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japan shows no sign of letting up as the number one customer of the American farmer, primarily because Japanese consumers are craving more red meat, says the U.S. Feed Grains Council.

The council, in a report to members, says its efforts in earlier years to help convert Japanese consumers to meat and poultry have been largely successful.

"But the affluent Japanese consumer today is well aware of steak, pork chops and Kentucky Fried Chicken," the council said. "The problem now is to produce adequate supplies to meet the pent-up demand for animal protein foods."

Darwin Stolte, council president, and James Massie, chairman of the board, recently toured the Far East, including Japan, Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong. Those countries are looking to the United States as "the only reliable supplier" of feed grains to Asia, they reported.

Japan is the biggest single-country buyer of U.S. farm products, taking some $1.4 billion worth last calendar year. Stolte and Massie said a huge consumer demand for red meat will continue to be a major factor in future imports.

SOYBEAN, GRAIN FUTURES ADVANCE

CHICAGO (AP) — A strong demand for commodity futures lifted prices in four major pits to limits for one session on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday.

In the soybean pit, the gains were 20 cents a bushel, $10 a ton in soybean meal, 100 points or 1 cent a pound in soybean oil and 8 cents a bushel in the nearby July corn option.

Wheat futures advanced nearly 7 cents and oats were up nearly 5 cents.

Iced broilers gained about 1/2 cent a pound in very light trade.

The heavy demand was readily apparent from the opening bell. Soybeans and meal opened limits higher as did the July corn options. Minutes later old crop oil futures rose to the top and held there.

Reports of rain in the Midwest and sections of the South and the fact that moisture might further slow down spring planting was a strong factor in the buying.

But soybean meal in Rotterdam, a major European market, reportedly brought $420 a ton and the demand also was strong at higher prices in downstate Illinois.

Another buying factor was the expansion trading limitations on old crop soybeans and meal futures, beginning next Tuesday.

Wheat, corn and oats also were in demand on the weather factor. Exports also were a factor in the wheat move.

After the initial gains, however, there was some quick profit-taking by local professionals.

After the midway point, soybeans remained at 20 cents a bushel higher, July 9.38; wheat was up 10 cents, July 2.91 1/2; corn was up 8 cents, July 2.04 1/2; and oats were up 4 to 4 1/2 cents, July 1.03.

Jack Fires 66, Leads By Four

ATLANTA (AP) — Incredible back to the group tied for third at 139. It included Al Gelberger, Lou Graham, Hubert Green, Dwight Nevil and Larry Wize.

Leading money-winner Bruce Crampton of Australia, Lee Trevino and Arnold Palmer are not competing.

Mac McLendon and rookie Dye Glanz, who shared the first round lead with Nicklaus, faded back in the pack. McLendon blew 10 strokes higher with a tying 133 total, 11-under-par on the hilly, 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

"It's as good as I can play," said the 33-year-old veteran generally regarded as the finest player in the world today.

The powerful blond attracted a massive gallery of several thousand who surged and screamed through the pine forests and clambored precariously over the hilly course. They were treated to a superb exhibition.

Nicklaus didn't make a bogey. He hit every fairway for the second day in a row. He hit every green. Only once was his approach shot more than 25 feet from the flag.

He had six birdies. He lipped out two other birdie putts, missed an eagle by an inch and left two other birdie attempts just inches short of the cup.

"We all ought to be getting handicaps, the way that guy is playing," said Tom Weiskopf, the only other player in the field able to keep Nicklaus in sight. Weiskopf was alone in second with a 67-137.

Rutherford Has Secure Feeling

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Johnny Rutherford has the hottest pony in the stable for Monday's Indianapolis 500-mile race, and he is sleeping better at night because of it.

"After the years of frustration, after all of the pain and the tragedy that has happened to me at Indianapolis Motor Speedway, it is a secure feeling to know that you have the fastest car on the lot, and that you're the favorite and the potential winner," the personable driver said Friday.

Rutherford, a handsome, 35-year-old Texan from Fort Worth, will start his Gulf McLaren team car in the pole position for what he believes will be the fastest race ever run anywhere.

He topped the four days of time trials by putting together four laps of the ancient 2.5-mile Speedway at a dazzling 198.413 miles per hour, almost five miles faster than any previous 10-mile run at the oval.

Relaxed and confident, the 175-pound, 5-foot-11 veteran of nine starts in the world's premier event for motor racing looked back dispassionately at an unending series of frustrations.

"In my second year, in 1964, I had to drive through a wall of flames on the front stretch, literally driving over another car in an effort to avoid the crash in which Eddie Sachs and Dave McDonald were killed. I got out of it with minor burns on my neck and back.

"I also wrecked in 1967, hitting the wall off turn two. But for the most part, it has been the failure of working parts on my cars, a broken transmission here, an oil leak there, the little things that nag you sometimes beyond endurance."

Rutherford, whose best finish was 18th twice, in 1967 and 1970, was severely injured in a violent crash in a sprint car in 1966. He broke both arms and was burned badly. He still shows the effects of that brutal mishap.

"But now," he said, "I think I have the edge I have been looking for all these years. Aside from the car, which is by far the best I ever sat in, I have a triple-A crew and the starting position I have always wanted."

The Indianapolis 500 has a history of tragedy, and Rutherford admitted Monday's race could be troublesome.

But he added, "It can be a safe race if all of the drivers play it heads up. How the race goes depends tremendously on the good judgment of a lot of people in a lot of cars."

"At 190 m.p.h. your thinking runs well ahead of your relative position on the track. Coming out of the second turn, for instance, I am already thinking as far ahead as the third turn, almost a mile away."

"You have to do that, your reaction time is that short. Like most of the other drivers, I depend on almost automatic reflexes, with a mental bearing always aimed at possible trouble. Like I said, it's heads up on everybody's part."

Rutherford's front row mates are Bobby Unser, who qualified Dan Gurney's Olsonite Eagle at 198.183; and 1972 winner Mark Donohue, who put his Roger Penske Eagle in at 197.412.

Third baseman Tim Grice of Minnesota and outfielder Tom Shipley of Wisconsin, with 42 and 41 points respectively, were top choices on the all-star unit announced by Commissioner Wayne Duke.

Also selected were first baseman Barry Burnett of Indiana (27 points); second baseman Bob Polock (26) and shortstop Jon Siron (32), both of Illinois; catcher Stewart Brownstein of Ohio State (35); outfielder Tom Kettinger (31) and pitcher Art Adams (38), both of Michigan; outfielder Bob Dekas of Northwestern (37); and pitcher Dave Winfield of Minnesota (36).

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals announced Friday that they have acquired quarterback-tight end Frank Patrick from the Green Bay Packers in exchange for line-backer Rocky Wallace in a National Football League transaction.

Patrick, 26, was a 10th-round draft choice of the Packers in 1970. The 6-foot-7, 225-pound part-time quarterback saw limited action last season because of a shoulder injury. He has a career passing record of eight completions in 23 attempts for 107 yards and two interceptions.

Wallace, 6-foot-1, 220-pound defensive line star for the University of Missouri, was picked by the Cardinals in the fifth round of the 1971 draft but has missed both the 1971 and '72 seasons because of knee problems.

The Cardinals said they will try Patrick out as a backup quarterback to starter Jim Hart and a tight end.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals announced Friday that they have acquired quarterback-tight end Frank Patrick from the Green Bay Packers in exchange for line-backer Rocky Wallace in a National Football League transaction.

Patrick, 26, was a 10th-round draft choice of the Packers in 1970. The 6-foot-7, 225-pound part-time quarterback saw limited action last season because of a shoulder injury. He has a career passing record of eight completions in 23 attempts for 107 yards and two interceptions.

Wallace, 6-foot-1, 220-pound defensive line star for the University of Missouri, was picked by the Cardinals in the fifth round of the 1971 draft but has missed both the 1971 and '72 seasons because of knee problems.

The Cardinals said they will try Patrick out as a backup quarterback to starter Jim Hart and a tight end.

'Law Of Averages' Halted Marathon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As early rising New Yorkers yawned over breakfast Friday, Rusty Staub of the Mets explained how he helped beat the Los Angeles Dodgers with a 19th-inning double.

"The law of averages had to catch up with you," said the 5-hour, 42-minute marathon that had 40 hits — 22 by the Mets.

Besides being the longest game in modern Dodger history in innings and time, Los Angeles center fielder Willie Davis had six singles in nine at-bats, tying a modern major league record.

There have been numerous 19-inning games in the past and overtime encounters are nothing new for the Mets, except that this time they won, 7-3.

The longest game in major league history was a 1-1 tie in 26 innings between the old Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston in 1920.

The Mets lost 1-0 to Houston in 24 innings in 1968, four years after a 24-inning, 8-6 loss to San Francisco that required 7:23 to play.

The Dodgers and Mets finished at 1:45 a.m. (PDT), or 4:45 a.m. in New York.

The Dodgers took a 3-1 lead while attacking Mets' starter Tom Seaver for nine hits in six innings. New York tied the game with single runs in the seventh and eighth innings.

The Dodgers wasted bases-loaded opportunities in the eighth and 10th innings, and Dodger Manager Walt Alston said, "We had about six opportunities to score and didn't. It's just one of those games we should have won but didn't."

"But you have to give the Met pitchers credit for pitching out of that many jams."

Left-hander George Stone, 1-0, the fourth Met pitcher of the evening, earned the victory for hurling six scoreless innings. Jim McAndrew retired the Dodgers in the 19th for his first save of the year. The Dodger loser was young Doug Rau, 0-1, who worked the last four innings as the sixth Los Angeles hurler.

Cleon Jones opened the 19th with a single to left and came around to score on Staub's fifth hit, a double to left. The Mets added insurance runs when pinchhitter Ken Boswell singled home Staub. Ed Kranepool doubled home two more runs before Rau could retire the side.

CHICAGO: Is it legal? Angels' Nolan Ryan, whose pitching delivery has stirred some controversy this season, hurls the ball against the White Sox Thursday. Official baseball rules say a pitcher must move his pivot foot in contact with the pitcher's plate during the pitch. White Sox manager Chuck Tanner kept a wary eye on Nolan's delivery, but refused to protest as the White Sox won the game 4-1. Opposition managers believe Ryan, who now has a 6-4 record, is getting a "running start" by lifting his pivot foot off the plate. (UPI Telephoto)

Bloom Keeps Role As Track Favorite

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Bloom of Chicago Heights, runner-up last year, qualified four individuals and its 880-yard relay team Friday to maintain the favorite's role in what shapes up as a tight squeeze for the Illinois state high school track title.

The championship will be decided Saturday and Bloom's chances rest with Tim Johnson in the pole vault, Rich Schford in the shot put, Orlando Burnett in the mile and Milt King in the low hurdles, as well as the half-mile baton carriers.

Lyons of LaGrange, Chicago Englewood, Thornton and East St. Louis Lincoln also remain in strong positions.

Morton West with five places and a relay team, and Glenbard West with five spots had the largest number of qualifiers but seemingly only can hope to cut in on a scattering of points.

Senior Mike McFarland of Chicago Parker and Craig Virgin of Lebanon shared the limelight of Friday's preliminaries.

McFarland matched the 100-yard dash record of 9.5 and bettered the 220 mark with 20.8. However, there was too much tailwind and the performances could not be certified.

Senior Virgin headed the mile qualifiers with 4:10.0, his best of the season. He is the defending mile champion, as well as a two mile titlist. No qualifying tests were held in the two mile.

Some other season bests were the 1:52.4 by Thornton's Charlie White in the 800 and a shot put of 62.2 by Alan Pulikowski of Proviso East.

Mike Monroe of East St. Louis Lincoln, second in both dashes last year, may wind up the same Saturday. In the 100 and 220, Monroe's qualifying time of 9.7 and 20.9 were a shade off those of McFarland.

Lincoln posted the best 880-yard relay time of 1:28.7.

Indians Blast Four Home Runs To Drop Sox 8-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Two-run homers by Chris Chambliss and Charlie Spikes plus solo shots by Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan carried the Cleveland Indians to an 8-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox Friday night.

It marked the first time this season that the Indians, who went into the game with a .230 team batting average, hit four home runs in one game.

The game also marked only the fourth time this year the White Sox had gone to their No. 4 starter, Rich Gossage, who remains winless.

Chambliss cracked his third home run of the year in the first inning after Rudy Bel had walked, giving the Indians a 2-0 lead. Cleveland made it 3-1 in the third when Bell doubled, took third on an infield out and scored on a passed ball.

Gamble hit his fourth homer in the fourth inning shortly before Gossage departed and Spikes unloaded his ninth of the year off reliever Steve Stone with a man on in the fifth inning.

Duncan hit his 10th of the year, also off Stone, in the seventh inning.

The loss cut Chicago's lead in the American League West to 2½ games over the California Angels who defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3 and cost the White Sox the services of centerfielder Ken Henderson.

Henderson, attempting to score in the second inning collided with catcher Duncan and injured his right knee. Henderson suffered a strained ligament and will be out for a week.

Eddie Leon singled home a run for the Sox in the second inning and the White Sox added two more in the fourth to cut Cleveland's lead to 4-3.

John Jeter, Henderson's replacement, doubled to open the fourth and scored on a single by Ed Herrmann. Morge Orta then singled and Leon was hit by a pitch to load the bases.

The second run of the inning scored as Pat Kelly hit into a force play.

Ray Lamb, Cleveland's third pitcher, ousted his second victory against one loss after the Indians staked him to a 7-lead with a three-run uprising in the fifth highlighted by Spikes' homer and run-scoring double by Tom Ragland.

Cleveland 201 130 100-8 11 1 Chicago 010 200 000-3 8 0 Bosman, Strom (4), Lamb (4) and Duncan; Gossage, Stone (4), Johnson (7) and Herrmann, Brinkman (9), HRs: Cleveland, Chambliss (3), Gamble (4), Spikes (9), Duncan (10).

Mom Unser Not Nervous

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "I don't get nervous at all," Mom Unser said Friday. "I just sit still and pray a lot."

She is the undisputed First Lady of automobile racing, this busy, bustling lady of 67 who will have the uneasy privilege next Monday of watching two sons, Bobby and Al, drive competing cars in the Indianapolis 500.

"No, I don't have a favorite," Mom said. "They're both my boys."

Mrs. Jerry Unser of Albuquerque, N. M., looked every inch the grand dame of America's premier racing family as she relaxed 72 hours before the big race.

She is the only woman who has had two sons to win the 500. The checkered flag went to

The Orioles and Braves scored their third wins of the season in Elks Little League baseball Friday evening.

The Orioles ran their mark to 3-0 with an 8-7 edge over the Tigers, scoring the winning run in the top of the sixth.

SIU President To Lead U.S. Teams To China

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — David R. Derge, president of Southern Illinois University, will lead two U.S. basketball teams to the People's Republic of China in June.

The university said Friday the State Department had selected Derge as chief of party for a two-team, eight-game excursion from June 16 to July 7.

Game sites were not announced. Derge said he believes he was selected for the assignment because he had experience working with young people and had undertaken diplomatic assignments for the State Department. He did not say what those assignments were.

John F. Kennedy College of Wahoo, Neb., will send its national AAU women's championship team and a 12-member men's all-star team will be fielded. Memphis State University's Gene Bartow will do the coaching.

Members of the men's squad are: Kevin Greve and James Andrews of Kentucky, Ronnie Robinson and Larry Finch of Memphis State, Alvin Adams of Oklahoma, Donald Jackson of Xavier College of Louisiana, George Karl of North Carolina, George Panell of South Plains College in Texas, John Shumate of Notre Dame and Kevin Sta-com of Providence College.

Indiana Central jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning and pitcher Steve Bohmert held North Central to seven hits and went all the way for the victory.

Blyleven Has Best Game Ever

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Bert Blyleven spent a rainy afternoon reading about some classic games in baseball history.

The particular chapter he happened to close with before he started his pitching assignment for the Minnesota Twins Thursday night against Kansas City dealt with Harvey Haddix and a memorable game almost 14 years ago to the day.

On May 26, 1959, Haddix pitched 12 perfect innings for the Pittsburgh Pirates, but the little left-hander lost the game to then Milwaukee Braves on a hit in the 13th frame.

With that sort of baseball nostalgia in the back of his mind, Blyleven went out to face the Royals and almost put his name in the record books.

However, Kansas City's Ed Kirkpatrick put a perfect bid down the first base line leading off the fifth inning and Blyleven had to settle for a one-hit, 2-0 victory.

"It would have been nice to have had a no-hitter," said the 6-3, 200-pound right-hander. "But we won and that's the important thing. If a no-hitter comes, it comes."

Winning had been a problem for Blyleven, who celebrated his 22nd birthday by beating Oakland in the season opener. But then he lost six of his next seven decisions.

Blyleven, working with pitching coach Al Worthington, corrected a problem of overstriding off the rubber and the positioning of his shoulder. He found himself after falling behind 5-1 to Texas after two innings May 14. Blyleven allowed only one more hit and struck out 10 as the Twins rallied to win.

He then struck out 13 White Sox in Chicago last week and followed that with his one-hit straight victory on his one-hitter Thursday night to give him a 5-6 record.

Blyleven struck out seven Royals, giving him 71 whiffs in 81 2-3 innings this year. He walked only two batters in pitching the best game of his four-year career.

Indiana, SIU Gain Victories

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Indiana Central and host Southern Illinois at Edwardsville stayed alive Friday with victories in the NCAA Midwest College Division baseball tournament.

In the first game, Indiana Central bombed North Central of Naperville, Ill., 12-4 with a 20-hit attack, eliminating the Illinois school from the double-elimination regional tournament.

Indiana Central jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning and pitcher Steve Bohmert held North Central to seven hits and went all the way for the victory.

Cruz Keys Cards To 4-1 Triumph

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jose Cruz doubled home the winning run and scored another, keying a three-run rally in the eighth inning that carried the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves Friday night.

Alan Foster, 3-3, outdueling Ron Reed, 2-5, with a five-hitter. Ted Sizemore opened the Cardinal eighth with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice and came home on Cruz' double to right-center after an intentional walk to Ted Sizemore.

A bases-loaded walk to Ken Reitz and Mike Tyson's RBI single, which delivered Cruz, scored the insurance runs.

Clarke Is MVP

MONTREAL (AP) — Bobby Clarke may think Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins is the best hockey player in the world, but Bobby Clarke is the Most Valuable Player in the National Hockey League.

Clarke, the Philadelphia Flyers' 5-foot-10, 175-pound center, was named Friday by the Professional Hockey Writers Association as winner of the Hart Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the league's MVP.

Clarke, when asked if winning the trophy means he is the world's best hockey player, responded: "Are you kidding? If it went to the best, Bobby Orr would win it every year, hands down."

Clarke scored 37 goals and 64 assists for 104 points this past season to finish second in NHL scoring.

The 23-year-old Clarke, the first player from a West Division team to capture the award, received 158 points in balloting among members of the writers' association in the 16 NHL cities to 96 for Phil Esposito of Boston and 63 for Orr.

Orr, a defenseman, and Esposito, the league's leading scorer in 1972-73, had a lock on MVP the last four years, Esposito winning in 1969 and Orr taking over the past three seasons.

Clarke, Philadelphia's second choice and 17th overall in the 1969 amateur draft after all other teams declined to take a chance on his potential stardom because he is a diabetic, has more than lived up to the Flyers' hopes.

USC Has Five Players On 'Star Squad'

CHICAGO (AP) — National champion Southern California with five players tops the 50-member collegiate squad named Saturday to face the Miami Dolphins in the 40th All-Star Football Game here Friday night, July 27.

The squad, representing graduated standouts from 33 schools, was selected by Southern California's John McKay, making his coaching debut in the Soldier Field classic sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

McKay also has mustered four players from Oklahoma and three stars each from Nebraska, Purdue and Michigan State among the hand-picked talent trying to snap a nine-game losing streak against the champions of the National Football League.

The All-Star quarterbacking will be in charge of Louisiana State's Bert Jones, top draft pick of the Baltimore Colts; Joe Ferguson of Arkansas, and Ty Paine of Washington State.

Running backs for the biggest physical squad ever sent against the pros since the 1934 inaugural All-Star game include Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt; Purdue's Otis Armstrong; 220 pound Sam Cunningham of Southern California, and 224 pound Bill Olds of Nebraska.

Nebraska's Johnny Rodgers, one of five wide receivers selected by McKay, will be unavailable because of his recent signing with Montreal in the Canadian League which starts play early in July.

The remaining targets for Jones, a dropback quarterback, and sprint-out quarterbacks Ferguson and Paine include San Diego State's Isaac Curtis; Arizona State's Steve Holden; Florida State's Barry Smith, and Oklahoma's Joe Wylie.

Among 31 hefty All-Stars weighing 220 pounds or more are defensive linemen Dave Butz of Purdue, 280, and John Matuzak of Tampa, 270, and offensive linemen John Hannah of Alabama, 270, and a quartet of 280-pounders—Paul Seymour of Michigan; Jerry Sizemore of Texas; Guy Morris of Texas Christian, and Paul Howard of Brigham Young.

Last year's All-Stars, directed by Bob Devaney of Nebraska, lost 20-7 to the Dallas Cowboys, giving the pros a 28-92 series record. The All-Stars of Otto Graham last scored a collegiate victory in 1963 with a 20-17 shading of the Green Bay Packers.

Nash and Bruce Baldwin were mound masters Friday night in Pony League play at the Pony-Colt Park.

Nash ripped a no-hitter as Winchester ripped Fanning Oil. Nash whiffed 19 batters and was one out away from a perfect game when an error allowed the only runner of the game.

Nash added a single and an inside-the-park home run with Robert McPearson contributing two singles to the winning attack.

Baldwin fired a one-hitter as F & W Colon washed defeated Langdon Insurance 6-2. Baldwin fanned 15 and walked ten in the game, allowing only a single by Jon Huston. Huston allowed only five hits in taking the mound loss. Baldwin had two hits to help his own cause.

Bass Club Announces Award Program

By BOB McDONALD
I am happy to announce the 1973 Jacksonville Bass Club Award program, and how it works. There will be twelve attractive trophies that will be awarded to the twelve top bass club members of the year who will qualify for those honors through a point system starting with the Inter-Club Meet April 28 and ending with the last scheduled Inter-Club event in October of 1973.

Points will be scored as follows: one point for every ounce of bass weighed in at all of our Inner Club activities, and only legal size bass will be counted. Additional points may be earned by every member for each scheduled meeting he attends. Ten points will be awarded for attendance.

The club champion, plus the other top eleven members will be presented their trophies at the annual bass club dance to be held in early November.

Additional awards will be given, such as the "Largest Bass" trophy. The member who weighs in the largest bass during our scheduled events throughout the season will be the proud owner of this beautiful big trophy.

This year a Sportsmanship Plaque will be awarded to the outstanding club member who has shown the best sportsmanship during the season. Votes will be cast at the end of the season for this award. Hopefully, every member will be a candidate.

Lunker club awards will be given to every member who weighs in a five pound bass, or over, during the club scheduled events.

All trophies are on display at our new meeting place, the Central National Life Building.

Bass Club President Bob Kavanaugh was presented with this trophy by the Springfield Illini Bass Club for the largest bass caught during the Otter Lake Tournament.

THE DOCTOR SAYS Induced Vomiting Is Nothing New

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have a friend who, after eating a moderate meal, goes to the bathroom and makes herself vomit. She tells me she feels good after this. I have tried this a few times. Would you please tell people what this would do to a person's health?

Dear Reader — I don't recommend the practice, but must acknowledge that this is not new. The ancient Romans used to do it regularly. They would eat one of their famous Roman banquets and between courses they removed themselves and emptied their stomachs, after which they would return and keep on eating. It is one way of eliminating a number of calories that are absorbed into the body, and I suppose in that sense, contributes to weight control. I am sure most people would find this practice relatively unpleasant.

Individuals who induce forceful vomiting will sometimes rupture a blood vessel in the lower part of the esophagus and have serious bleeding. After all, the act of vomiting is induced by vigorous muscular contractions of the digestive tract in a somewhat unnatural way. The act might actually be a health benefit if a person

French Foreign Legion Motorized, Modernized

By MORT ROSENBLUM
Associated Press Writer
PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — The Beate Geste generation wouldn't believe it...the French Foreign Legion in hammocks and sarongs, building roads in the South Seas. And not a camel in sight.

The legion just isn't the same old last resort for romantics and misfits spilling for a fight. Here, the main task is helping build facilities to test the nuclear weapons to outmode the legion's style of battle.

The Tahiti contingent, officers here say, is one of the six remaining legion regiments. Only a unit in French Somaliland and another farther down the east coast of Africa in Madagascar are based outside of France.

And camels went out years ago. "Yes, there are men who miss a good scrap," said Lt. Col. Henri Riou, a 26-year veteran and the top legion officer here. "Today we are motorized, modernized. There is no more folklore."

In Tahiti and in neighboring Polynesian islands, about 600 legionnaires work with 300 regular army men in a mixed construction unit. Their 5th Regiment standard, strung with ribbons from Indochina in 1880 and later North Africa skirmishes, hangs in the office of their commander.

The legion left Indochina almost two decades ago, and independence in North Africa ended France's role there.

"We don't want war again, but if it's necessary, we'll be in the first row," said Riou, second in command. "But if there's no war, we've got other things to do."

The old movies don't show it, but the legion's mission has always been to build as well as fight. The legion cut roads all over France's now dwindling empire.

115 AT ASHLAND CHURCH MOTHER, DAUGHTER DINNER

ASHLAND — The annual Mother-Daughter banquet of the Ashland United Methodist church was held in the church dining rooms Tuesday night, May 22. A salad smorgasbord was enjoyed by approximately 115 women and girls.

Mrs. Billy Pearson gave the invocation. Mrs. Don Parsons, president of United Methodist Women, welcomed all those present. Thoughts of a mother and daughter were given by Mrs. Lee Houser and daughter, Johanna.

Awards were presented to: oldest mother, Marsha Boosinger; youngest mother, Connie (Mrs. James) Deppe; mother who came the farthest, Mrs. Velma Penstock; oldest unmarried daughter, Miss Mildred Viands; birthday today, Mrs. Mabel Monroe; girl with most buttons, Sonie Anders; girl with most colors in her outfit, Jennifer Jones; girl with most front teeth out, Julie Donnan; youngest aunt, Johanna Houser; youngest daughter, Tonya Deppe.

Rev. and Mrs. Barr presented a program of Biblical stories, told with the use of hand puppets. Rev. Barr is pastor of the Loami Christian church.

Asia, the world's largest continent, contains 29.5 per cent of the world's land.

When they first arrived a decade ago, some Polynesians decided to keep the legionnaires away from their women. That was the last fighting the legion did here, and it didn't last long.

Now most legionnaires spend their leisure hours under the palms fishing, swimming and reminiscing about chasing guerrillas across deserts.

Some have retired early to settle here with their girlfriends and wives. Tahitian families consider legionnaires good catches because they build a good house and pay the bills.

As always since the legion was formed in 1831, only the officers can be Frenchmen. Legionnaires here have dozens of nationalities and background and, Riou says, the changed role around the world hasn't hurt recruitment.

Col. Alfred Baltzenjer, the regiment's commander, says he finds the legion admirably suited to its new role here.

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — New York leads the 50 states in the number of manufacturing plants, number of persons employed, variety of goods produced, and production of manufactured goods as measured by value added by manufacture.

"In Polynesia, at least, the legionnaire can still follow his dream. But, anyway, these men are professionals and they do what is required. We have no discipline problems here.

"To the legion, the word 'exceptional' is very, very important."

Pilot Program

Plant 26 Trees On Local Boulevards

Mrs. Marion Thorn, president of the Pilot Club of Jacksonville for 1972-73, presided over her last business meeting of the year at the Illinois Power Company Wednesday, May 9, following an executive board meeting.

Routine business was taken care of and coordinating chairman Mrs. R. J. Kaufmann, Sr., asked for committee reports. Community service hours reported by chairman Mrs. Reid Lasley, showed volunteer workers at Passavant Hospital Gift Shop in April, Miss Zoe Marshall, Mrs. Arthur Samore and Mrs. Kaufmann. Mrs. Milton Stout, chairman of the club's tree project, stated 26 trees planted on boulevards in the city as result of the spring tree campaign, managed jointly by Journal Courier, City street department and the Pilot Club. The latter matches funds given by interested citizens.

TB Project

Miss Louise Bancroft, chairman of education and international relations, summarized Stamps for Norway project, which the club has favored a number of years. This concern is managed by Sons of Norway located in Minneapolis, Minnesota, a group which cooperates with a 40-year-old stamp project in Nesbyen, Norway, called TUBFRIM. This is one of the largest stamp-distributing concerns in the world. Profits are used to provide care and treatment for children threatened with tuberculosis and also to provide assistance to handicapped children. Although large commemorative stamps are especially appreciated, there is a market for all American and Canadian stamps.

Miss Bancroft emphasized this project provides a simple way to participate in a fine service effort. She thanked Pilots for stamps saved for this project. She has sent two boxes of stamps this year to be sent to Norway in shipments made through courtesy of Norwegian-American Line.

Assembly Passes Land Trust Disclosure Bills

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Legislation to require disclosure of the names of persons involved in land trusts which propose to do business with the state or local governments emerged Friday from both chambers of the Illinois General Assembly.

In the Senate, a measure to require disclosure of the beneficiaries of land trusts doing business with any governmental unit was approved by a vote of 31-10 with four members voting present.

That measure, sponsored by Sen. Edward Scholl, R-Chicago, was opposed by several Chicago Democrats who objected to the haste with which the senate acted on the measure.

The Scholl bill was sent to the House, where two measures involving land trust disclosure passed with no objection voiced on the floor.

JEANNIE C. RILEY In Person & "The Homesteaders", Griggsville High School Gym 8 P.M., Sat. Nite, May 26 Advance tickets; Sorrell's Restaurant.

THE BEEF & BIRD Dining room closed to public Saturday evening, May 26, due to private party.

ONE OF THE MEASURES, sponsored by Rep. William Kempiners, R-Joliet, would require disclosure of the names of any beneficiary of a land trust under the same conditions spelled out in the school bill.

The other measure, sponsored by Rep. James "Pete" Philip, R-Elmhurst, would require land trusts to disclose who benefits from them when the trust seeks rezoning or a zoning variance.

"We are being stigmatized by what is being reported (about politicians and land trusts) in our newspapers," Kempiners said.

"This is an affirmative action to disclose corruption in government at all levels," he said.

The House approved the Kempiners bill 135-0 and the Philip bill 130-3, sending both bills to the Senate.

Meanwhile, legislation which many observers say holds the key to the outcome of the current session — the creation of a regional mass transportation authority in northeastern Illinois — was introduced in the House.

A package of 10 bills sponsored by Speaker W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, was introduced which would set up the authority to coordinate rail, bus and subway transportation in the Chicago area.

The system would be funded in part by creation of a state lottery and the proposal calls for a reduction in the state sales tax by one half per cent throughout the state.

The regional authority would have the power to impose a parking tax and reinstate the one-half per cent sales tax in the six counties involved in the system, providing the bulk of the revenue for the $160 million system.

The proposal is largely the product of a two-month study conducted by Blair as chairman of the Illinois Transportation Study Commission.

The Senate, meanwhile, passed a measure to provide $100 million in state grants for school construction, the first time the state has taken the initiative in getting involved in capital expenditures by public schools.

The key bill, sponsored by Sen. Harry Fawell, R-Naper, passed 43-4 with bipartisan support. Half of the $100 million would go to downstate construction, $25 million for Chicago and $25 million to pay off bonds on programs already begun.

In other action, the House passed and sent to the Senate measures to:

—Require marriage counselors to be licensed by the state.

—Limit the amount of indebtedness home rule municipalities may incur dependent on their tax base and population.

—Increase the flat grant per student hour to junior colleges from $16.50 to $21.

—Appropriate $189,876,825 to the Department of Revenue.

—Appropriate $709,150 to the St. Louis Metropolitan Authority.

The Scholl and Kempiners land trust bills were aimed at eliminating the practice under which politicians could deal anonymously with governmental units through land trusts.

Each would require land trusts to certify the names of persons who are beneficiaries.

Trusts which fail to disclose all the names would have their government contracts voided and persons who fail to identify themselves as a beneficiary of the trust would be liable for a felony punishable by a maximum of three years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The Scholl bill adds the requirement that if a politician fails to disclose his involvement in a land trust, he shall vacate his public office.

Chicago Democrats in the Senate objected to passage of the Scholl bill because Scholl produced an amendment which entirely replaced the original bill just minutes before the bill was voted upon.

Termining the Philip bill "very constructive," Rep. Robert Mann, D-Chicago, said "I know that the land trust can be used to conceal the names of slumlords."

The bill requires the land trust to disclose beneficiaries when it makes a request for a zoning variance or rezoning.

The school construction bills take the state into an area in which it once went only when local school districts could not come up with the money to fund urgently needed projects.

The state currently funds public schools with about 39 per cent of their operating costs.

To Investigate Mental Health Administrators

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Daniel Walker has promised an investigation of all administrators in the state Mental Health Department to see why Peoria State Hospital deteriorated so badly it had to be closed.

Walker called for the investigation during another in his series of what he calls accountability sessions Thursday night at Bradley University. In this series the governor appears around the state to answer questions from the public.

The closing of the hospital was announced last week, and phasing-out operations began Wednesday. Administrators say they hope to have the facility shut down by Dec. 18.

"We will examine the performance of every individual" in the mental health department, Walker said. But he reminded the audience that most workers are under civil service and have some job security.

A number of Peoria State employees attended the session and expressed concern about finding new jobs. One said there are 89 dieticians at the hospital and only one job opening in the area.

Still, Walker said he thought most of the hospital's 550 employees would find work. "I don't think any good employee will have trouble finding a job within the Illinois mental health program," he said.

Bicycle, Car Collide Friday At Woodson

Roy V. Caldwell, Jr., 11, Rural Route 5, was treated and released from Passavant Hospital Friday night after a bicycle-car accident at Woodson.

The Caldwell bicycle collided with a car driven by Marjorie D. Kemp, 43, Rural Route 2, on the Woodson-Franklin blacktop one mile east of Route 67 in Woodson.

The bicycle sustained about $10 damage, the car about $45.

Three Women Criticize GOP State Senators

CHICAGO (AP) — Three women, nominated by Gov. Daniel Walker to cabinet-level posts but rejected by the Senate, accused "the Republican-controlled Senate and its leader" Frida of a systematic effort to get rid of women in government.

Nancy Phillippi criticized Sen. William C. Harris, R-Pontiac, in a news conference. She was rejected Thursday as assistant director of the Department of Local Governmental Affairs.

Appearing with Mrs. Phillippi were Mary Lee Leahy, the governor's original choice to head the Environmental Protection Agency, and Beverly Addante, nominated as assistant director of the Department of Personnel.

Miss Addante's appointment was also rejected Thursday. Mrs. Leahy has been serving as an assistant to the governor since being rejected by the Senate about a month ago.

"Gov. Walker made a pledge during the campaign to bring more women into government and he did it," Mrs. Phillippi said in a statement. "Now, systematically, Sen. Harris is getting rid of us."

All three said that their qualifications for the posts had never been questioned. Mrs. Leahy said she had fulfilled the duties of EPA director for "101 days" while Mrs. Phillippi and Miss Addante had been on the job five months before rejection.

All three also said they had been subject to harassment in appearances before the Senate.

Neither Mrs. Phillippi or Miss Addante announced any plans for the immediate future. Both indicated they hoped to rejoin the Walker administration in some capacity.

Sheriff's deputies Friday morning investigated the theft of 16 head of feeder cattle valued at over $6,300 at the current market price.

Sheriff's deputies said the report came from Raymond Duewer who resides six miles southeast of Alexander on County Line Road.

The 16 head of cattle weighed about 900 pounds each and were stolen from a feed lot located about an eighth of a mile from the house.

Investigating officers said there was evidence that the cattle were transported by a truck with dual wheels.

The incident is under investigation.

He was born March 9, 1903, northwest of Manchester, the son of John C. and Nellie McManahan Robinson. He married M. Jean McDougall July 9, 1937, in North Dakota and she survives.

He attended high school at Manchester, graduated from Brown's Business College at Jacksonville; attended the University of Illinois; received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Illinois State Normal University; and his Master Degree from the University of Iowa.

Mr. Robinson served as principal at Normal Central School, Washington School, Bloomington; and schools at Waverly and Divernon, Ill. FINDLEY SUGGESTS NIXON TESTIFY VOLUNTARILY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—U.S. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., suggested Friday that President Nixon should go voluntarily before either Senate investigating committee headed by Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., or a grand jury to tell what he knows about the Watergate affair.

On the WICS Television interview program, Capital Conference, Findley said that "either step, I think, would bring wide praise."

"If, as I would expect," Findley said, "it would show that he had no further knowledge or involvement, it would put him in a strong position to reassert effective leadership."

"He wouldn't have to volunteer to the Senate committee," he said, "although that would be one way to put it fully and completely on the public record. He could volunteer as a witness to a grand jury looking into the question."

Findley said he made the "very novel and curious proposal" because of "the depth of this inquiry and its effect not only on his own success as President but on the role of the U.S. in domestic and foreign affairs."

Real John-Boy Tall Humorous Man Of 50 Now

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Yes, there is a John-Boy Walton but his real name is Earl Hamner who lived the life of "The Waltons" 35 years ago in the little town of Schuyler, Va. Hamner is a tall, humorous man of 50 now. He wears spectacles and his warm, Virginia-accented voice can be heard narrating the popular television series every Thursday night.

As creator and executive story consultant of "The Waltons," Hamner sometimes feels his eyes brimming and a lump in his throat when he sees a new episode with other members of the show in a private screening room.

Sees Himself as a Boy
"I have to look away or concentrate on something else to keep from making a fool of myself," said the man who sees himself as a boy every week. "I recall those depression years and our poverty with great fondness. We were a close-knit, loving family. We still are.

"Last Thanksgiving when all the kids went home to see mother they turned out the lights that night and said goodnight by the names we've given the characters on the show instead of their own."

The Walton house is a replica of the Hamner home in Virginia, as pilgrims from the Midwest, New England and South have discovered when visiting the "Walton house" after having seen the show.

"Our place has become sort of a shrine," Hamner said, smiling.

Viewers Visit

"Viewers write to the Richmond and Charlottesville chambers of commerce asking where to write to the family. Then they pay a visit, and sometimes Mother serves them tea."

Two sisters, who live near Schuyler and are friends of the Hamners, told Earl's mother they recognized themselves as the pair of tiny old ladies who own a still in recurring characterizations on the show.

"They weren't the ones I recall," Hamner said. "But if it pleases them, it's all right with me. I'm sure there are many who own stills down in that country."

May 12 is Nelson County Day in Lovingson, Va., the county seat. This year Earl Hamner will be guest of honor, along with his brothers, sisters, his mother and other relatives.
